

Media Sources for News & Information

New Sources

Associated Press \(AP\)

Established in 1846, AP is a not-for-profit news cooperative renowned for its objective reporting on global events.

BBC News

The British Broadcasting Corporation provides extensive global news coverage, maintaining a reputation for reliability and impartiality.

Harvard Business Review \(HBR\)

Non-political, research-based, high editorial standards. Topics focus on leadership, management, strategy, innovation.

McKinsey & Company Insights

Research-driven, data-heavy, and globally neutral. Deep dives on economics, leadership, and strategy.

MIT Sloan Management Review

Academic based, with priorities on digital transformation, leadership, and technology.

NPR \(National Public Radio\)

An American nonprofit media organization offering in-depth news, analysis, and cultural programming with a focus on comprehensive storytelling.

PBS NewsHour

A trusted source for detailed news coverage and analysis, PBS NewsHour is known for its balanced reporting on national and international affairs.

PwC Thought Leadership Reports

Neutral, industry-focused, and backed by data. Great for trends, forecasting, and strategic planning.

Reuters

A division of Thomson Reuters, this international news organization is recognized for its impartial coverage and adherence to rigorous journalistic standards.

The Conference Board

Non-partisan, business-focused research and economic indicators. Trusted by executives and policymakers alike.

Fact Checking Organizations

FactCheck.org

A project of the Annenberg Public Policy Center, this nonprofit aims to reduce deception in U.S. politics by monitoring factual accuracy.

PolitiFact

Operated by the Poynter Institute, PolitiFact evaluates the truthfulness of statements made by public figures and organizations, using a "Truth-O-Meter" rating system.

AllSides

This platform presents news from multiple perspectives, offering media bias ratings to help readers understand different viewpoints.

Evaluate News Sources with the Following

- ✓ Editorial Standards: Reputable organizations adhere to strict editorial guidelines that emphasize accuracy, fairness, and transparency.
- ✓ Fact-Checking Practices: Reliable sources employ dedicated fact-checking teams to verify information before publication.
- ✓ Transparency: Trustworthy outlets disclose their funding sources, ownership, and potential conflicts of interest.